In the 1830 and 31 the Hemp culture was attracting much attention among the farming community of New England, and Caladonia County, V., shared the fever to the utmost extent. Whole farms were given up to the new manner of fearing wealth and the stands have a prominent article of merchandize. The brothers Erastus and Thaddeus Fairbanks, then young men, embarked in the purchase and preminary manufacture of bemp. On this lineof good or ill import to humanity—bung the invention of the Platform Scale. The traffic of the Fairbanks Brothers was impeded by the in-Alexandria, Grisley Frontignan, Royal Musea-dine, Brownwood Museat, Frankindale, Zinfin-dall, Chassalas, Childs Superb, Syrian, Pales-tine, and perhaps many others. We might speak of the health and the luxury which such a green-house will afford. The refined pleasure to be derived from the culture of the grape so successfully will more than repay all the care and attention it requires. But for the benefit of those who look only to the number of dollars they can coin from whatever they do, let us look at the value which this grapery would be likely to yield were its rich tempting causters thrown upon the market. There are thirty vines averaging some thirty bunches each, in all nearly a thousand clusters. They will weigh from one to two, some of them even three pounds to the cluster. Grapes like these will be eagerly purchased at from one to two dollars per pound, and it needs very little further favouries of the grape show that the product of the grape show that the product of the grape pround, and it needs very little further favouries the grapes have the grape and receiving rounds at the product of the grape show that the product of which gave them if a not very rapid neverthem.

The scales under the Fairbanks plan comprise spor aris of one hundred modifications, adapting the to all forms and uses, varying in size from the bugs, yet delicately poised structures in whose quain in lies the leaded canal boat of five hundred tons; of the finitest affair which will, we had almost written, weigh you the mosquito and give you the fairs of his bill and wings.

But in an article of use so universal, sad of uffilly so confessed, there is little need of particularizing in known varieties for track, depot, warehouse or general use. The extent of the adoption of the Fairbunks Platform Scale is best shown by the fact that at the Works they are just about to enter upon the uninstead thou send of a class of scales which receive their "shop numbers" under the same head; the common Portable Scale Nine y thousand; and the market not "supplied" yet. Letter from Geo, Bliss, President M. Since getting relieved from the pressing en gagements connected with the late melanches ent pear South Bead, I notice an article from your paper purporting to be the "State-ment of Mr. J. J. H. You represent him to state that he was in the aloging car at the time of the accident, that the irst he know, the water was rush ing over the or, the lights were out, be leaped into the torrest, and succeeded in getting to a the torrest, and succeeded in getting to a clump of bases and up the bank—that everything us confusion—that Osgood, the conductor, seemed crazy—ran to South Bend and Mahawankee (each two miles from Bend and Mahawaukee (each two miles from the scene) rusrued, a distance of eight miles, without his jat, and that he (Rice) took charge of him and rought him to Chicago at 31 o clock on Monday. Now as 1 was there the who's time for 15 hous, I pre-boduce the whois account raise. There is not a time of truth in the whole story. In less than one minute I went to the door of the diepping car not to the shore; and the water was not over two feet duep, for I waded to the shore inmediately. It was about 14 feet deep in the car at one end, perhaps three feet at the their. If Mr. Rice passed into the torrent he nost have been the "crasp" one. The light in the roof of the car was not extinguished, and I think one of the lanterns was carried ashore to light a fire for the women and children. Mr. Osgood was acting in concert with me the whole time from midnight till afternoon the rext day, except when he went to South Bend to pocure an engine and cars to take off

Rice of Laporte—initimately known here, was at Toledo on the evening of that day, conversed with the Superintendent it eight or nine of slock, who introduced him to Mr. Ransom of New York. This is, 150 miles from the place of the accident. Mr. Rice took the train for the west at half past ten the same evening, and he asyshe arrived at Chicago at three and half oclock Tuesday. I repeat, if there be not two "Mr. J. J. H. In the absence of a press to extract the juice, Mr. W. boiled the stalks are very juicy, and after boiling, require no pressing; they are merely left to drain; to each gation of juice add two pounds of sugar, and place in a barrel to ferment; after fermenting it should be corked tight. Three pounds of sugar makes it too strong in alcohol. In using, add half water. It is possible that the boiling is much better than pressing after all, and may account for the more mild, wine-like flavor o This wine, to say the least, will be much better than strychnine whisky, or the drugged wines of the shops. A few words as to Mr. Douglas, and our relation to him, which is another cause of the anger of The States. We hasten to relieve our cotemporary by saying that we are neither the organ, the champion, nor the apologis! of that or any other statesuam, We confess that we like the man, and especially his last declaration of principle in regard to Charleston. But we hold ourselves wholly free to differ from, and to oppose him, should he take such a course as would render that opposition a duty. If The State in his support like a faithful subordinate. If The States should fail in this effort, and apother man, and another platform, at variance with that so well laid down by Judge Douglas, are substituted, then we will antagonise both with as much alacrity and freedom as a hungry man despatches a good dinner."

The correspondent of the London Srar, dated Vienna, Sunday, 12th, says: Vienna, Suuday, 12th, says:

"I have to announce to you the speedy dismissal of Count Gpulai. He is condemned by every body as a most incompetent strategist. There is a misstatement alleged to have been wifully made by him, to the effect that the battle of Magenta was lost owing to the two divisions under Generals Clam-Gallas and Benédek not having come up in the right time. This was asserted in a way that implied culpability in the conduct of those generals, whereas the fact was that those divisions had not received orders from Count Gyulait oad vance at all and that they did so in obedience to the orders which those Generals took apon themselves the responsibility to issue, when they perceived the dangerous position of Count Gyulait. They are so indiguant at this false calumny that they have demanded a court-martial to examine the matter. This proceeding will lead, it is generally expected, to deceang will read, it is generally expected, to the visition of their military reputation, and to the condemnation of Grulat, who is now the most popular man in Austria Field-Marshal Von ressis looked upon as his probable success-cot, before long in the chief command—under the Emperor, of course. Great hopes are entertain-ed of his performances in that capacity."

Sr. Louis, July 3.—The Sail Lake correspondent of the Hepableon says that Judge Cradalbaugh had returned from a tour of his circuit. He issued warrants during the trip for the arrest of nearly one hundred persons engaged in the massacre at Mountain Meadows and various other minders. He saw no church officials along the roate. He reports that for eighty mites before reaching Santa Clara, nis company found human skeletons at most every camping ground, many probably nurdered by the Indianalsat winter. He says that upward of eighty white men assisted at the Mountain Meadows massacre.

There is no mistake about the existence of gold in paying quantities in this region. I have, a addition to the facts embodied in our report written at the Gregory Diggings, an account of Dasvas Cirt, June 17th, 1800.

A large prospecting party to be composed of Georgia miners, and old Californians and experienced mountaineers, is just being organized in the Gregory diggings. They will start under the auspices of the owners of some of the rich leads aiready worked, who with landable liberality, will bear most of the expenses for the purpose of securing a thorough exploration of the mountain regions. From five to seven weeks will be employed to accomplish the object of the journey, and the party will axiend this prospecting as far as the Great Basin, in a westerly, and the Medicine Blow Mountains, in an ortherly direction. The explorer and discoverer, par excellence, Gregory, will be as comes, that and arready become very desirable in consideration of the rich decomposed, but yet hard quarts rock that surrounded the leads of pay dirt, can no longer be dispensed with To illustrate the imperfection of the present modus operands, I will but mention that some ten days ago a smart individual proceeded in attend of hunting for a claim to re-wash the dirt that had passed through the shares of the Indiana Company (Greggory's diggings) and collegated in Ralleston's Creek, the result of his first day's labor was not leas than $14.50. It is, however, almost certain that quartz mills will not be brought here this season. The time employed in their construction and transportation, would undoubtedly conducted the mines would would be the conducted to the desire as a season of the present year, table on the other the roughness of the roads to the mines would render it all but impossible, without extensive improvements, to carry mills to like respective points. Once there, there will, however, be no difficulty in operating them. The very best of matural water power can be found almost anywhere in the mountaines. The Eastern emigration has experiened no diminution since my last reference to it. Among the late arrivels quite a number of families were noticeable. The weaker sex now number over a hundred representatives in this locality and the different diggings.

Hard coin and gold dust form the gambling medium.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.*

The latest news from the mines is the discovery of leads of solid (not rotten, as in other leads) gold bearing quarts, by the indefatigable Gregory, some ten miles north of the Gregory diggings, near what is called the Snow Range. Some beautiful specimens from this lead arrived here last night. The piece of quarts I saw with my own eyes contains a lump weighing at least fire pennyweight.

A dispatch from vienna says a battle was pro-gressing, but gives no details.

The Prussian accounts from the seat of war said the Austrian force on the Mincio was fully 280,000 strong, and the entire French force had passed Monte Chiano, and their reconnoisance was said to have been pushed as far as Gaito, and that the Piedmoutese had advanced towards P-schiera-sthe north-west fortification of the Historia Square.

It must be anything but agreeable to our city, as well as our country merchants, who receive two or three of our New York daily papers to read the Market Reports of the "Fiour," "Grain," and "Provision" trade, especially if they wish to get accurately posted as to the true condition of the New York markets. they wish to get accurately posted as to the true condition of the New York markets. We have noticed, and our attention has been frequently called to the fact, that no two reports read alike, or even give the same idea or quotations. There was a time (but it is now some time ago.) when all the reports were alike. That was when the reporters exchanged notes, But that time has passed, and each reporter now gathers his own information—each sending it forth to the four quarters of the globe as accurate and reliable, won sometimes it is no more the market thou it was last Thursday, when some of the sharp ones—"the knowing fellows"—he reporters we mean, quoted the Flour market up 10@15c. per bolt, when actually there was no real advance, and no cause for any, as the merchants, almost to a man, will admit.
